

ADVANCED INTERNATIONAL TRAINING PROGRAMME 2011

290B

Child Rights, Classroom and School Management

July 2011 March 2013

Phase II in Lund, Sweden, September 12 – October 6, 2011

Phase IV in one of the invited countries in March 2012

Invitation

The Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida) is a government agency responsible for the major part of Sweden's development cooperation. Focus on long-term knowledge and competence development constitutes a major feature in all development cooperation.

Sida offers, as part of its bilateral development assistance, Advanced International Training Programmes of strategic importance to the social and economic development of cooperating countries based on identified priorities and needs. In the long-term perspective the programmes shall contribute to institutional strengthening and capacity development in the cooperating countries.

These programmes aim at enhancing managerial and technical skills and cover subjects of strategic importance to economic and social development. The Training Programmes are designed for experienced executives from middle and top management positions in their respective organisations.

With the Training Programmes, Sida aims to contribute to processes of change and development in the participants' organisations and lines of businesses. The foundation of the entire programme is a project for change carried out by the participants. The project shall be well established in the participants' organisations and it is a basic part of the programme concept.

In co-operation with Lund University a Human Rights Education (HRE) programme covering Child Rights, Classroom and School Management has been developed. The rights to, in and through education are the guiding principles in the course and the whole training programme has a child rights-based approach.

Lena Ingelstam
Director
Sida

This programme is also designed to give opportunities to compare and share experience with participants from other countries while taking into consideration the Convention of the Rights of the Child, Education for All and other internationally agreed instruments. A rights-based approach has the potential of contributing to the broader efforts of improving educational quality and impact. Schools and classrooms that are protective, inclusive, child-centred, democratic and encourage active participation have the potential to solve problems such as non-attendance, dropout and low completion rates, which are common in developing countries. Child-centred content and teaching learning processes that are adequate to the child's developmental level, abilities, and learning style promote effective learning. A child rights based approach may also enhance teachers' capacity, morale, commitment, status and income. Negative attitudes may be altered through the practice of conflict resolution, democracy, tolerance and respect in the classroom.

Lund University has conducted the Child Rights, Classroom and School Management programme since 2003, under the auspices of Sida. So far more than 300 change agents have completed the programme. Starting in 2010 the programme has been redesigned after a public tender. The training programme, which is conducted in English, is designed for those holding positions at School, Intermediate and Central level of the education sector. Preferably a team, representing the levels mentioned, consisting of three people from each country should apply. The team is expected to work together throughout the training programme. The number of participants is limited to 30 (from 10 countries) in order to ensure a close working relationship between participants and lecturers. We hereby invite you to nominate candidates.

Programme objective and goals

From a development perspective, the overall objective of the programme is: "to improve participating countries' capacity to offer and ensure everyone's right to relevant and quality education, an education that is safe and secure, inclusive, student-centred, democratic and problem-solving and that creates opportunities for all, regardless of background, to participate in community life as active citizens." The objective is that changes will take place that contributes to the realization of the intention of the Child Rights Convention in policy as well as in practice.

The goals of the training programme are for the participants to gain:

- Increased knowledge and understanding of the CRC.
- Increased knowledge and understanding of the Education for All

(EFA) and MDGs targets, relevant international concepts such as child-friendly schools, inclusive education and education for democracy and human rights (EDHR) and other relevant international instruments.

- Increased knowledge and understanding of experiences, methods and tools for organizational change in general, and rights-based (participation, inclusive and transparent) and democratic methods and tools for change in particular.
- Knowledge and understanding of Swedish and other international methods for translating children's rights and democratic values into practice in schools and in the classroom.
- Expanded international and national networks to work with the CRC and other relevant international conventions and instruments.

Contents

The rights to, in and through education will be the guiding principles in the programme. The whole training programme has a child rights-based approach. The following topics will be included in the programme.

- Policy documents and laws in the subject area related to human rights - CRC, Education for All (EFA) and other internationally agreed instruments of central importance in this context,
- Key aspects of children's rights to, in and through education and their practical implications
- Democracy in the school and the school's role in society "citizenship", inclusive education, gender equality
- Opportunities to use Information and Communication Technology (ICT) to promote increased quality and increased access to information and knowledge
- Appropriate forms of leadership as well as organizational structures, forms and behaviour and a leaders' role in the various structures

- Difficult situations such as disciplinary measures, bullying, corporal punishment and sexual abuse and possibilities to make a change
- Importance of problem solving, critical thinking, participatory approach in the participants context
- Education for Sustainable Development as a holistic approach where social, economic and ecological issues are integrated.

Programme in five phases

The training programme consists of five phases. The first, preparatory phase, takes place before the participants' arrival in Sweden and it will give all participants a starting point for the programme. During this phase the participants will contact the other team members and start working on an assigned task, relevant for their home country in consultation with a mentor.

The second phase takes place in Sweden and it lasts for four weeks. The main content of the second phase will consist of studies in Child Rights, teaching and learning and leadership combined with study-visits to relevant Swedish institutions, including different schools. A project for change which should have a high degree of practical relevance for the participants and their home organisations, will be identified, planned and decided during the stay in Sweden.

The third phase consists of working with the project for change with regular assistance from the team's mentor. The fourth phase consists of a ten day progress workshop in one of the invited countries focusing on the project for change carried out by the country teams. The participants will be asked to develop, discuss and present plans for applying the programme content in their project for change. Study visits to former participants' existing projects will also take place. Sometime after phase four, a follow-up visit will be conducted by the respective mentor in the teams' home countries. This visit, together with the final report, which is to be written by the teams, constitutes the fifth and last phase.

After having fulfilled all five phases

the participants will receive a final diploma from Lund University. They will also join a national, regional and global alumni network of Change Agents. The final report of the project for change will also be printed in a book.

Date and place

The programme runs from July 2011 to March 2013. The second phase will take place during the period of September 12th – October 6th, 2011 in Lund, Sweden, including a field trip to Stockholm. The fourth phase of the programme will take place during March 2012 in one of the invited countries.

Methodology

The programme comprises lectures, workshops, discussions, study visits, mentoring and project for change. Lectures by invited experts on the key areas will be held. The project for change is the base for the whole training programme and will go on during the whole period of the training programme. The project will be carried out in teams consisting of three participants from each country.

Management and staff

The training programme is offered by Lund University in Sweden. It is an interdisciplinary programme with staff from the departments and units of Sociology of Law, Education and Social Work at Lund University as well as the School of Teacher Education at Malmö University.

Participation

Invited countries:

Africa: Burkina Faso, Egypt, Ethiopia, Liberia, Mali, Malawi, Mozambique, Namibia, Sierra Leone, South Africa, Tanzania, Uganda and Zambia
Asia: Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Cambodia, China, India, Indonesia, Sri Lanka and Vietnam.
Latin America: Bolivia and Colombia

Target Groups:

Preferably a team consisting of 3 people from each country representing the levels mentioned below should apply but individual applications are also welcome. All team applications should have a cover letter for each participant. The participants from the same country are expected to work together in the project for change. The target groups for the training programme are persons working within the educational sector at three levels:

For example

- At local level: headmasters, inspectors and educational advisers who are working with the development of methodology and management at school and classroom level in a number of schools (clusters);
- At intermediate level: officers and trainers responsible for educational activities at district or province level;
- At central level: teacher trainers, headmaster trainers, staff at institutes working with educational development and at Ministries of Education.

In addition to the above, the programme will be open to professional NGO staff, working in the field of Education and Human Rights, based in developing countries, as one member of the team. A necessary prerequisite is a university or a teacher training degree. Work experience of at least five years is also required. Participants should be approximately 30-55 years of age and fluent in English. The teams should consist of a mix of men and women and be balanced regarding participants' ages. Teams consisting of three applicants of same gender will not be considered. Applications should be endorsed by the applicant's organisation.

Application Process

Closing date for application is April 26, 2011

Applications submitted after closing date will not be considered. Application should be written on the attached special form and include a recent photograph and required information and documents. Hard copies of the application can also be obtained from the nearest Swedish Embassy. Application should preferably be filled out in the application form on our website <http://www.education.lu.se/sida/child> but a hard copy still needs to be signed and printed. The application should be submitted to the nearest Swedish Embassy/ Consulate. If there is no Swedish Embassy/Consulate in the applicant's country, the application should be submitted directly to the Program Secretariat at Lund University Commissioned Education. An English language test should be done with an official body in the applicant's home country, unless the applicant can provide other documentation to support her/his ability. The Swedish Embassy/Consulate does not carry out language tests but may be able to recommend appropriate language institutes for conducting tests. When necessary, the application should be approved by the official nominating authority in the country. Selected applicants will be notified by email. Once accepted, you must confirm your participation. An invitation letter containing additional information on the programme and the practical arrangements will then follow. Letter of commitment from the applicants organisation is required stating that they have a mandate to perform a project for change as well as complete all five phases of the programme.

Cost of Participation

The Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida) will cover the costs of:

- participation and training such as lectures, literature, documentation, study tours and certain social activities
- accommodation including board and lodging,

- international travel cost to and from Sweden
- international travel cost in connection to the fourth phase of the training programme.

Costs incurred in travelling to the nearest international airport as well as visa costs are to be paid by the participants.

All personal expenses have to be carried by the participants themselves.

Accommodation

In Sweden all participants will be accommodated at Hotel Sparta in single rooms with shower and toilet. At Hotel Sparta participants have access to a kitchen with a fridge, storage space and cooking facilities. During phase IV accommodation at a three or four star hotel will be offered.

Due to the special character of the programme family members cannot accompany to Sweden or the progress workshop.

ADVANCED INTERNATIONAL TRAINING PROGRAMME 2011

Lund is situated in south-western Sweden, in the province of Scania (Skåne). The city was founded in the tenth century and still possesses a quaint, old-town atmosphere with winding streets and picturesque houses. Today, the city of Lund has approximately 100 000 inhabitants. Lund University was founded in 1666. Located at the threshold of continental Europe, Lund University is now a major international institution. It is the largest single establishment for research and higher education in Scandinavia, comprising seven faculties (theology, law, medicine, humanities, natural sciences, social sciences, and technology). Approximately 46,000 students, including 3 000 post-graduates, are enrolled at the University. A number of research institutions, hospitals, research based industries, libraries and museums are also located on and around the university grounds.

Lund University Commissioned Education
Lund University Commissioned Education is a division of the university specializing in marketing, sale, quality assurance and administration of commissioned education from Lund University. The university departments are responsible for the content of the training programmes, while Lund University Commissioned Education takes care of the administration of the training programmes.
